THE LIGUOR TRAFFIC Subject Before Columbia Association of Baptist Churches.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ADOPTED Date of Annual Meeting of Association Decided Upon.

PROCEEDINGS YESTERDAY

With tonight's session the twenty-second annual meeting of the Columbia Association of Baptist churches will be brought to a close.

The first business of this morning was the reception of the report of the committee on the liquor traffic.

The liquor traffic is a terrible evil. It is not a business, it is a crime. By license it is condoned and to an extent made respectable.

The committee receives something over $200,000 from the liquor traffic in this city each year.

The expense of the police and court house, jail and work house, penitentiary, and other municipal institutions must be taken into account.

Signs of Encouragement. The report, continuing, says there are signs of encouragement that through the efforts of the Anti-Saloon League the number of bar rooms in Washington has been materially reduced during the past year.

The Christian Temperance Union continues to do a grand work, while a final help in the struggle is the education of the young in the public schools as to the bad effects of alcoholic poison on the system.

Fortune in Phosphate. E. W. Carmack a few days ago was speaking of some of the good things that he had happened in the recently discovered phosphate fields in his old county of Murray, this state. He mentioned the extreme good fortune which had come to Will Howard, who lives some miles out in the country from Columbia. It seems that Howard had loaned a man $4,000 on a small farm in the Mount Pleasant neighborhood. This was only a few years ago, but before the time of the mining fever, the borrower had been in a fair circumstances, but he could not meet the note, and was compelled to give Mr. Howard the farm for debt. The lender thought that he had got very much the worse of the bargain, and finally gave the farm to his son, Will. It was not long after this that phosphate became the thing of that section, and Howard's farm was offered $100,000 for the $4,000 farm. This he very promptly refused, and was considering an offer of $250,000 for the property, when along came a big syndicate, with an offer to assume the mining of the mine, and to pay him a royalty per ton, and under conditions that they should mine a certain number of tons per month for six years. If this he very promptly refused, and was considering an offer of $250,000 for the property, when along came a big syndicate, with an offer to assume the mining of the mine, and to pay him a royalty per ton, and under conditions that they should mine a certain number of tons per month for six years.
